AUBIGNY COMMUNAL CEMETERY EXTENSION
France

Additional information in the Commonwealth War Graves Commission Register
Son of Arthur and Ellen Mabel Cartwright, of Rothbury, Cusop, Hay, Hereford.

Before March, 1916, Aubigny was in the area of the French Tenth Army, and 327 French soldiers were buried in the Extension Cemetery. From March 1916 to the Armistice, Aubigny was held by Commonwealth troops and burials were made in the Extension until September 1918. There were a number of Casualty Clearing Stations here during the whole period. The Extension now contains 2,771 Commonwealth burials of the First World War and seven from the Second World War. There are also 227 French burials made prior to March 1916, and 64 German war graves. Ronald Cartwright is buried in Plot VI. Row J. Grave 8.

FLIGHT AND AIRCRAFT ENGINEERING

MARCH 21, 1918

Second Lieutenant RONALD W. ST. GEORGE CARTWRIGHT, R.F.C., who as announced in "FLIGHT" March 7th, was killed on February 26th, was the second son of Mr. Arthur Cartwright, late H.M. Inspector of Schools for the Worcestershire District, and of Mrs. Cartwright, of Rothbury, Hay, Hereford, and grandson of the late Colonel Heywood, of Great Malvern. He was one of three brothers in the Forces, the youngest of whom, Second Lieutenant Eric Cartwright, 4th Leinster Regiment, and M.G.C., was killed in the battle of the Somme, in 1916. He was educated at Bilton Grange, Rugby, and Malvern College. He had only been a few months in British Columbia when war broke out, and joining up immediately in Victoria he came over with the Canadian Contingent early in 1915. After only a few days in England his company was ordered out to reinforce the Canadians at Ypres, and with the 16th Canadian Scottish he served through all the fighting there and in the charge at Festubert. On one occasion he was buried by a big shell, and shortly afterwards was invalided home and had to undergo an operation for appendicitis. He suffered from shell shock for 18 months, but made a marvellous recovery, and almost before he was really fit again he obtained a commission in the R.F.C., and went to the front in September, 1917.

Ronald William St George Cartwright was born in Market Harborough in 1894, the second son of Arthur and Ellen Mabel Cartwright. At the age of four he was boarding with his brothers and sisters at a hotel in Barmouth. His father was HM Inspector of Schools for the Worcester District and the family moved to The Knoll, Colwall. Eric was educated Bilton Grange, Rugby and Malvern College. He emigrated to Canada and on his attestation in January 1915 he called himself a rancher and declared that he was already a member of the 88th Volunteer Force. He came to Europe with the Canadian contingent and served with the Canadian Infantry. He was gazetted as a second Lieutenant in the Royal Flying Corps in August 1917, and went to the front in September 1917. He was killed in action at Menincourt in the Second Battle of the Somme near Albert. He is buried in Aubigny and he is commemorated on the Malvern College, Hay on Wye and Cusop Memorials.
